

TriZetto Launches New Shopping and Enrollment Solution to Help Healthcare Organizations Grow Membership through the Healthcare Marketplace

DENVER, Colo., July 7, 2016 -- TriZetto, a Cognizant company, today announced the continued expansion of capabilities within the Health TranZform™ Solution Suite, a new suite of solutions that enable collaboration across healthcare and break down data silos to inform and engage all healthcare stakeholders to support the transformation to value-based healthcare models.

The newest capability within the solution suite leverages marketplace shopping and enrolling health technology provided through the newly formed partnership with Quadrant 4 System Corporation. This capability enables the convenience of an online marketplace where consumers can shop, enroll, manage and exchange all benefits-related information to help individual consumers, employers, and groups make more informed decisions about the cost and quality of their care. It will also enable healthcare organizations to drive greater levels of operational efficiency and address strategic growth objectives.

"Quadrant 4 is powering a user-friendly shopping and enrollment capability that supports the TranZform suite's ability to help healthcare organizations develop new ways to compete and deliver a consumer-centric experience in the health insurance marketplace," said Jude Dieterman, Chief Executive for TriZetto.

"TriZetto is a strategic partner we identified early on as being the right partner for our solution", stated Dr. Nandu Thondavadi, CEO of Quadrant4 System Corporation. "We are excited to bring the strengths of our technologies together to enable consumers to engage in a user-friendly experience when they are making important decisions around health benefit options and selecting the right benefit plan to best meet their specific situation and needs."
